

Overview:

Before you can chat with others in Whyville, you need to take a “digital citizenship” quiz by getting your chat license. Many Whyville games require the use of chat commands to work properly. Getting your chat license allows you to interact with other Whyvillians. Earning your chat license provides safety guidelines for how to behave in Whyville.

How to Get There:

You can get your Chat License at the Welcome Lounge. Go to the Teleport Menu —> *Welcome Lounge and click on the “Earn your Chat License” poster on the wall to begin.

Instructions:

Whyvillians will ask you a series of questions – click on the speech bubble (right hand column) that you feel is the most appropriate response. Once you’ve received your Chat License, you are considered a registered citizen of Whyville! Now you can chat in social rooms and use chat commands for games.

Quiz Tips:

- 1) ASL or A/S/L stands for Age, Sex, & Location.
- 2) City Workers are adults that work for Whyville. Their job is to make sure everyone on Whyville is safe, and they monitor all chat, forum posts, and Ymail . You can identify City Workers by their red CW beanie hats. (Only City Workers have a CW beanie hat.)

Managing your class:

- I want my class to see chat from all Whyville citizens.
- I want my class to only chat privately with other members of my class.

Make sure that your students get their chat licenses too. They’ll receive 150 clams for completing the chat license quiz. As a safety feature, you can prevent your students from chatting with anyone outside of your class. Go to your Satchel —> Class Roster —> and scroll down. There is an option that says “I want my class to only chat with other members of my class.” Select that option!
